

District Requirements for Expenditure Website

Question:

ISBA has received several questions about the line in Section 33-357, Idaho Code which states that “supporting contracts and performance reports upon which the expenditure is related when the documents already exist” shall be posted as part of each district’s expenditure website. Some of the questions related to this line and what types of documents should be included are answered below.

Answer:

- Yes, this means contracts, including teacher contracts.
- No, performance reports would not include teacher observations or evaluations.
- Our attorneys are unsure what the line means in regard to “performance report” unless it is used in a construction setting and putting all construction performance reports on the website would be exceedingly cumbersome and time consuming.
- Yes and No on whether an invoice is a supporting contract or a performance report. The invoice may be a contract in certain situations or it may be a performance report if it demonstrates delivery or part delivery, etc.
- No, you do not put legal bills on the site – those are privileged communications because they include a description of work.
